DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 2-9, 11, 13, 14, 23-27, 33, 34, 38, and 39 are presented for examination.
2. The objections to the claims and specification are withdrawn. Also, the rejections under 35 U.S.C. §112 are withdrawn.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-9, 11, 13, 14, 23-27, 33, 34, 38, and 39 are allowed.
4. The following is an Examiner's Statement of Reasons for Allowance:

In interpreting the claims, in light of the specification and the applicant's amendments filed August 20th, 2007, the Examiner finds the claimed invention to be patentably distinct from the prior art of record. The prior art does not teach all of the limitations of the independent claims in combination with the other elements presented.

The prior art of record teaches the use of personalized information channels that are distributed to a plurality of users for accessing digital content (Reisman, abstract). The prior art also teaches the use of data modification and compression to provide device-independent access to the internet via a variety of mobile devices (Bickmore, abstract). The prior art also teaches the use of advertisement servers that extract advertisement content according to user information and provide the content back to a data server for processing (Kappel, e.g., col. 9, lines 47-67 and abstract).

However, as per claims 2-9, 11, 13, 14, 23-27, 33, 34, 38, and 39, the prior art fails to teach a portable terminal including a plurality of channel icons that respectively have channel URL information of a predetermined subject, wherein a user selection of an icon of the terminal causes two or more URLs to be transmitted from the portable terminal to the data server, wherein the two or more URLs are associated with a set of URLs, each URL of the set corresponding to a web server that provides content of the predetermined server. Furthermore, wherein the content is subsequently requested from the plurality of web servers, bound into a single channel, and transmitted to the portable device, in the context of all limitations present in the independent claims.

5. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
